Terms:

Minimum Payments: Even if your APR is 0%, you are still required to pay at least the minimum monthly payment on time every billing cycle.

Penalty APR: If you miss a payment or pay late during the promotional period, the issuer can cancel your 0% rate and replace it with a penalty APR (often exceeding 25%).

Expiration Dates: Once the promotional period expires, standard interest rates will apply to any remaining balance.

Balance Transfer Fees: Intro APRs on balance transfers frequently come with a processing fee (typically 3% to 5% of the transferred amount).

Deferred Interest: Be mindful of "deferred interest" offers (common on retail cards); if you don't pay the balance off completely by the end of the promotional window, retroactive interest is charged to your account.

Down Payment: You may be required to pay an upfront portion of your total purchase, normally between 20% /30% according to Credit Score and Business Financials.

Shipping, Taxes & Installation Fees: Are due at time of delivery and cannot be financed.
